What?

Sound the Alarm is a nationwide campaign to save lives by installing 100,000 alarms nationwide, including 1,000 alarms in Hawaii.

Since 2014, Red Cross volunteers and community partners have installed 1.4 million smoke alarms, making over 600,000 households safer, and saving at least 472 lives.

Why?

Every day, 7 Americans perish in home fires, and Red Cross offers help and hope in the aftermath.

Smoke alarms cut the rate of death in half, so we install free smoke alarms in the homes of vulnerable populations like the elderly and disabled, and educate them on how to prevent and escape from home fires.

Volunteer Positions

- Documenter: completes documentation forms and keeps track of supplies, including number of smoke alarms installed.
- Safety Educator: reviews fire safety checklist and prevention tips and helps residents complete fire escape plans.
- Installer: installs smoke alarms with resident's permission, and within manufacturer's and program guidelines.
- Assistant: assists Installer with tools, supplies, and safety.
